Extel Office Opens in Brisbane, Australia

This office reflects the growing electronic product development market and emphasizes our commitment to bringing electronic design, manufacturing and product life cycle management to Brisbane and the broader Queensland market.

“We are thrilled to open the Brisbane office and also to introduce our local Business Development Manager, Russell Oakes, to Extel.” says Jeff Thomas, Chief Business Officer.

“We have many existing clients across Queensland whose needs will be serviced better by having Russell and the team available to collaborate on a face-to-face basis, providing the conduit to the wider Extel group and services. The Queensland market is booming with sophisticated electronic and PCB needs in the Defence, Medical, and Green Energy sectors. We recognize the demand for high-quality services in the region and intend on providing greater support for these businesses now and into the future.”

Our new Brisbane office complements our broader geographical presence covering the entire East Coast of Australia and major centers including Adelaide, Hobart, Melbourne, ACT, Sydney, Newcastle, Brisbane and the Gold Coast.

It’s a model that has proven successful for our clients with the connection between Extel offices in the US and Singapore. We intend on bringing the same success to the Eastern seaboard.
